IN BRIEF //

Have your say in shaping Newham's future

Give your opinion on how planning decisions are made by Newham Council through the consultation 'Choices for the Core Strategy.'

The council wants to hear your views on how their new planning policies should be shaped. These planning policy documents will set out how the borough should develop until 2027.

The consultation takes place from 28 June until 31 July.

You can find out more and fill out the questionnaire to have your say by visiting www.newham.gov.uk/planningpolicy or you can pop into the regeneration tent at the Mayor's Newham Show on 17 and 18 July. Alternatively, you can view the documents at your local library and log on there to fill in the questionnaire.

Illegal cigarettes are seized

More than 20,000 illegal cigarettes and five kilos of hand rolling tobacco have been seized by Newham Council and customs officers from a house in Beckton.

The cigarettes were not duty paid and the tobacco was also counterfeit and thought to contain higher levels of harmful chemicals and extra tar compared to legal cigarettes.

The haul – which would have evaded approximately £7,000 in duty and taxes – is believed to be from Europe and Asia. It has been taken away for further tests and destruction.

Councillor Unmesh Desai, cabinet member for crime and ASB, said: "Trading in smuggled and counterfeit tobacco isn't a harmless fiddle; it encourages otherwise law abiding citizens to deal with criminals. It will not be tolerated."

Royal honour is a joy to behold

Popular councillor Joy Laguda has been awarded an MBE by HM The Queen in this year's prestigious birthday honours list.

The former nurse who has represented Plaistow North ward for 12 years is honoured for her tireless service to the people of the borough.

Councillor Laguda, executive member for older people and adults, said: "It came as a complete surprise. I would like to thank those who nominated me.

"I feel so proud to have been recognised for the work I have done. I have always tried to make a significant difference to all the communities that I come into contact with."

Mayor Sir Robin Wales said: "Joy is a role model and mentor both to other councillors and to people within the community. This honour is richly deserved."

Also on the honours list is Tom Canning, head teacher of Tollgate Primary School, Plaistow, who receives an OBE for services to local and national education. Joining him is Beryl Riches, who has worked at Selwyn Primary School, Plaistow, for 36 years. She is the school's business manager and receives an MBE for services to the school.

Prime Minister challenged on 2012 jobs

Mayor Sir Robin Wales has called on Prime Minister David Cameron to recognise that employment is the key to a lasting legacy of the 2012 Olympic and Paralympic Games.

The Mayor told the annual meeting of the House of Lords Symposium on the Olympic Legacy – held at the council's Newham Dockside offices – that there needs to be jobs to make the regeneration that comes with the Games sustainable.

Sir Robin said: "We will not be forgiven if we squander this once-in-a-lifetime opportunity. We want Government support for our existing mechanisms for getting people into employment, like Workplace, a one-stop jobs service for residents."

The meeting was attended by Lord Mawson, chair of the All Party Parliamentary Group on Urban Regeneration, Sport and Culture; John Armitt, chair of the Olympic Delivery Authority; and Baroness D'Souza, convenor of the Crossbench Peers.

Mr Armitt, Sir Robin, the Baroness and Lord Mawson

Looking after someone else's child?

If you're looking after someone else's child for more than 28 days you must notify Newham Council.

If the child is under 16 (or under 18 if disabled) and you're not a close relative this counts as a private fostering arrangement and the council must be notified by the child's parents or carer.

A social worker will visit the family home to check that the child or young person is, amongst other things, given regular meals, in good health and is going to school.

If you're a parent whose child is being fostered you remain responsible for the child and it's vital that you notify the council of your arrangement.

If you're a young person or child that's being privately fostered, be aware of your rights. Your carer cannot move you to live with another family, change your name, arrange for you to be married or prevent you from contacting your family.

For further information call 020 8430 2000 or visit www.newham.gov.uk/fostering

Green light for Games venue

Newham councillors have approved plans that mean organisers of the London 2012 Games can press ahead with turning the ExCeL exhibition centre in Custom House into a key venue for the Olympic and Paralympic Games.

The Strategic Development Committee granted planning permission for temporary structures to be built at ExCeL and Pontoon Dock in North Woolwich during the Games.

ExCeL will be transformed into five separate temporary arenas hosting seven Olympic sports, followed by six Paralympic sports a few weeks later. The temporary structures include security fencing, spectator access compounds, security compounds and broadcast compounds. The Pontoon Dock site will be used as a broadcast compound.

Sebastian Coe, chair of The London Organising Committee of the Olympic and Paralympic Games, said: "We are delighted to have been granted planning permission. This demonstrates how important Newham is to all our plans to put on a memorable Games."

Chorus has much to sing about

Nearly 600 pupils from 25 schools raised the roof at the Royal Festival Hall on the South Bank recently with a spectacular concert of songs.

Together the youngsters, aged from eight to 15, make up the Newham Young People's Chorus, and the concert of classical, gospel style, pop, folk and Bollywood songs celebrated the choir's sixth birthday.

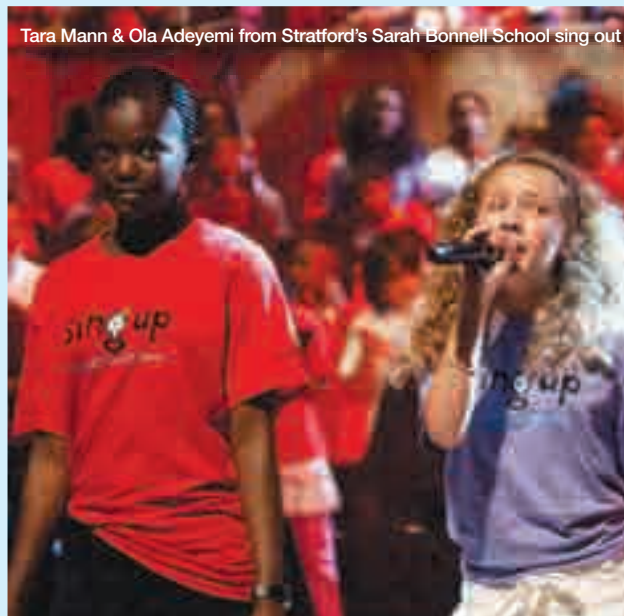

The concert called Sing Up! Sing Out! was organised by Newham Council in partnership with the East End Opera company and the IGospel group. It is part of a programme of summer events called Inspiring Young People that celebrates talent in schools.

An audience of more than 2,000 heard songs from around the world that included classics from Beethoven's Ode to Joy through to 1950s Bollywood classics in Hindi.

Mayor Sir Robin Wales said: "We have some amazing young people and I am delighted that they can show their talents on such a massive stage as The Royal Festival Hall."

Full details of the Inspiring Young People programme are available on the council's website at www.newham.gov.uk.

Fairness above all else

Although I write this column just before budget day, it's clear that the Government is going to bring in some vicious cuts to our public services and increase your taxes. I understand that due to the economic situation in the wake of the global financial crisis, some cuts are necessary. However, when and how deep the cuts will be concerns me. Given what has happened in the last few weeks, I wonder what has happened to the concept of fairness that our politicians are so keen to talk about.

"I believe in fairness and we are committed to continuing to provide free school meals even when the Government abandons the scheme."

There are two ways to deal with the current public sector deficit. One is to cut spending and increase taxes. The other is to continue making sensible savings whilst investing in the projects that will allow our economy to grow. In truth, there is probably a middle way involving some spending cuts and tax increases but not so vicious that the economy plunges back into recession.

A few weeks ago the Government introduced a panic set of cuts. They slashed funding to Newham by £4.6m but wealthy Richmond only got a cut of £900,000.

When challenged in Parliament about how unfairly their cuts are being targeted, the minister responded, 'those in greatest need will inevitably take the biggest cuts'. Why? It does not and should not have to be that way. At the election every party talked about 'fairness'. Is it fair to penalise the worst off for the mess created by wealthy bankers?

Last week the Government announced that it would not extend the free school meals pilots beyond 2011. We are one of those pilots and the costs of the free meals are shared between us and Government. I believe in free school meals for all kids. If you are on benefits you get free meals anyway. But if you are working, earning a low income, you have to fork out £330 per year for each child you have. Cutting off support at this time to hard-working families is not acceptable. I believe in fairness and we are committed to continuing to provide free school meals even when the Government abandons the scheme.

“ I will do my best to defend those services which I know people in Newham value.”

I also find it bizarre that on the day the Deputy Prime Minister Nick Clegg said he wants to make children happier, the Government not only announced they would not be extending free school meals, but that they would also cut free swims for kids and the elderly. We were the first council in England to introduce free swims and we did it without any Government subsidy. When we did, many young people who could not afford to swim came into our pools. We'll keep delivering free swims for our children. Politicians are exposed through their actions rather than their words.

I know that there are cuts – savage cuts – which we will be forced to undertake. I know that some of these will be unpleasant and difficult to make. I also know that I will do my best to defend those services which I know people in Newham value. If it is at all possible, we will continue to provide the sort of services which all our residents can benefit from because it is the right thing to do. It may be that we will have to revisit these policies. But that is what we should do as a last resort. We will not start off by cutting the things which make our society fairer.

“ We will not start off by cutting the things which make our society fairer.”

Carnival time

On Saturday 17 July the spectacular Newham Carnival returns - bigger and better than ever. The procession leaves from Cheltenham Gardens, E6, at 2pm and then parades through the streets surrounding East Ham's Central Park before entering the town centre. It will be led by a menagerie of gigantic creatures and then followed by all things cool, colourful and creative.

Hundreds of children and young people are getting their costumes ready now; working with artists from carnival specialists Emergency Exit Arts to design and create themed costumes and hand held images. This year's theme is Newham welcomes the world ahead of the 2012 Olympic Games, with ideas on multiculturalism, looking after Mother Nature and being eco-friendly.

So get your colourful hats on, grab a flag, wear a whistle around your neck and cheer on the procession as it dances into town.

Edwardian garden party

We've finally completed the £2.5m joint Newham Council-Heritage Lottery funded restoration of Central Park and to celebrate we're recreating our very own Edwardian Garden.

Why not step back in time and make like an Edwardian as characters in period costume and live brass bands recreate a bygone era. Delve through our Edwardian costume box and see how you would have looked back in the day, or be entertained by our traditional Punch and Judy show and giant lawn games. Follow the timeline through the Gardens and you can chart the development of Central Park from its opening in July 1898 to the present day.

Big Lunch

To coincide with the national Big Lunch campaign, the Edwardian Garden will also host a huge picnic area complete with deck chairs and wooden benches to provide the perfect picnic setting. The aim of Big Lunch is to bring the community together by sitting down and having lunch with your neighbours. Last year 730,000 people ate at 8,000 lunches across the UK – the biggest set of street parties since the Golden Jubilee. So pack your biggest hamper with teatime treats and join in the fun!

Newham's Pride

How much do you know about Newham and the East End's role in the two World Wars? We're bringing these crucial moments from twentieth century history to life with oral histories, archive films and living history displays.

Talk to members of the G Company 7 Rifles Territorial Army or the 282 East Ham Squadron air cadets to find out more about being in the Army or Navy. Authentic posters and uniforms from the time will also be on display; as well as the Newham bomb map, detailing the damage that was done to our borough during World War II.

Make like a civilian

During wartime, the mantra of the day was 'make do and mend'. Bring your old clothes to the show and learn how to mend, darn and customise your clothing – just like in olden times.

You can also 'dig for victory' by growing-your-own fruit 'n' veg with advice from local allotment experts. And don't forget to enter the grow-your-own fruit 'n' veg and cake baking competitions which will be judged over the course of the weekend.

Try something new this summer

Do you dream about becoming the next James Cameron?
Could your CGI movies make it to the big screen?
Perhaps you have a longing to learn a new language, edit your own magazine or work with some leading lights and write your own play?

If you're aged between eight and 19-years-old, you could do all this – and more – in Newham this summer thanks to Newham Summer School – where almost all courses are free.

The amazing array of things on offer means there'll be no room for boredom this break. The free Summer in Newham guide is out in July and will be available to pick up in schools, leisure centres, libraries and Local Service Centres. But before you dash to get your copy, here's a peek of what's in store this summer.

CYNTHIA AIMING HIGH IN THE THEATRE SKY

Upton Park resident and recent RADA (Royal Academy of Dramatic Art) graduate, Cynthia Erivo tells us about the Theatre Royal Stratford East's new joint-production with the Barbican, I Was Looking at the Ceiling and Then I Saw the Sky.

Based in Los Angeles during the 1994 earthquake, Ceiling Sky is a love story that focuses on seven twenty-somethings as their lives become intertwined.

"They each go through trials and tribulations," explains Cynthia, "but it ends with hope."

Set against the historical backdrop of mid-1990s America, Ceiling Sky has been revived 15 years after its debut and reworked with some of the Theatre Royal's unique magic. Featuring a live eight-piece orchestra, Cynthia describes the production as a play with music.

"It's definitely not a musical, break-into song kinda show. Instead, the whole play is music, there are no spoken words in it and all speaking and dialogue is in song."

Mixing gospel, with swing, with the odd ballad and spot of R'n'B; the production is a big mix of different musical styles. "Most of the actors are singers too," explains Cynthia. "I've been singing since I was five and the music that's associated with my character Leila involves a lot of jazz."

The wealth of musical styles is matched by a variety of themes explored in the play. "You've got sex, sexuality, adultery, hope, race riots; one of the characters is from El Salvador and an immigrant and that's quite a key story. And there's love as well." Before going to RADA, Cynthia was a member of the Young Actors Company at the Theatre Royal, as well as working in the box office and bar. "Now I'm actually on the stage here it feels like I've gone full-circle," says Cynthia.

Send your answer with your name, address and daytime telephone number to: Newham Mag, Newham Dockside, 1000 Dockside Road, London, E16 2QD or email: newham.mag@newham.gov.uk

The deadline for entries is Monday 5 July.

Slip, slop slap this summer

It's official – summer has begun! Before you dig out your summer glad rags and dash to soak up some rays, be a sensible sun worshipper and slap on some sun cream. NHS Newham explains why.

The sun's solar rays can be very harmful. Not only can they age you, but the sun can cause anything from sunburn to skin cancer.

Did you know that the younger the child, the thinner their skin? A baby's skin is around 20 per cent the thickness of adult skin, so it's no surprise that it can burn in as little as ten minutes. Shockingly, research shows that just six bouts of serious sunburn before the age of 18 doubles the risk of developing skin cancer as an adult.

But it's not all doom and gloom. If you play safe, you'll be safe. Always use a sunscreen with a minimum SPF rating of 15 and follow the slip, slop, slap message.

- > Slip on a t-shirt; cool, close-weave baggy clothing is perfect.
- > Slop on some sunscreen; the higher the sunscreen the better the protection and apply it 15-30mins before going out so your skin has time to absorb it and then reapply often. In particular, don't forget to reapply sunscreen after you've been for a splash in the pool or sea.
- > Slap on a hat; the wider the brim the better. Because it keeps your head cool, wearing one is the best way to avoid sunstroke.

And don't forget to protect your peepers with a pair of wrap-around sunglasses, with 100 per cent UV protection.

The sun can penetrate the cloud too, so protection is crucial, even in what passes for a typical British summer. It's always best to enjoy the sun safely – as well as using plenty of sunscreen try to keep children in the shade.

If you've an olive/dark skin tone or tan easily don't let that fool you into thinking you'll be ok in the sun. Make sure you don't feel the burn and slip, slop, slap along with the rest of sun safe Newham.

Arts at the heart – CREATE10

Believe it or not, the Olympic Games aren't only about sport. To prove it we're sharing details of a cultural programme of events and entertainment which will enlighten, engage and inspire. Newham, give yourself a LIFT and prepare for CREATE.

Following on from last year's programme, CREATE10 is here to highlight the very best talent from the five Olympic host boroughs of Newham, Hackney, Waltham Forest, Greenwich and Tower Hamlets. The programme, which also encompasses the LIFT (London International Festival of Theatre) – housed on Clarkson Road, opposite Canning Town Station – aims to create a community of culture, using the arts to showcase the talents of local people before, during and after London 2012.

There's so much happening on your doorstep we've only given you a taste of what's on. For all programme details visit: www.createlondon.org or for info about LIFT turn to page 30, or visit: www.liftfestival.com

EYES WIDE OPEN

Ben Brannick, 15, from Stratford School in Forest Gate talks about getting inspired by Stanley Kubrick and making his own film as part of his creative and media diploma.

"When I heard we were doing a project inspired by Stanley Kubrick I was intrigued. I'd heard so much about the man, yet knew so little. I knew he was a pioneer for the film industry, and he had many controversial films – my favourite being the bits I'd seen of Dr Strangelove for its dark humour – but that was about it. I was excited to learn more.

"Myself and other students doing the diploma displayed our films, along with some photos, at our recent showcase event."

"The University of the Arts London were really helpful during this project, and taught me a lot about techniques and processes, like using cameras, and the steps needed to produce films. They used professional technical terms, so we got an understanding of what it feels like to work in films.

"During our project, we looked not only at Stanley Kubrick films, but also at other works, such as Meshes of the Afternoon, a very beautiful yet surreal video at the Tate Modern. Once we had done this, we started working on our own films, using the soon to be demolished caretaker's hut at Brampton Manor School as our set.

"Myself and other students doing the diploma displayed our films, along with some photos, at our recent showcase event. We found suitable spots for our films to be projected on – such as a board or a likely looking wall – set up the equipment, and let the audience look.

"I mainly chose the creative and media diploma to see what the real world of creating and creators was like, and this project definitely gave me a good insight into films and Stanley Kubrick."

I was looking at the ceiling and then I saw the sky

A music theatre show by John Adams
Lyrics by June Jordan

An earthquake strikes, seven lives change forever

In downtown LA, the lives of seven twenty-somethings become intertwined as they strive for justice and search for love. When a catastrophic earthquake strikes, the seven are forced to face unavoidable truths and make tough choices as their lives are changed forever. John Adams' music theatre show is rich in the sounds and rhythms of American urban life.

Where did the idea for the Ascension Eagles come from?

When I first moved to Custom House the area had the largest number of under ten-year-olds in the nation – and the lowest level of provision; this was before The Royal Docks Community School, ExCeL or Richard House had opened so the area was very different.

So I started the cheerleading as a youth outreach club – and I told the kids they could be the Ascension Angels or the Ascension Eagles – and they chose eagles. I had no idea it would end up becoming a British Championship programme.

When did you start winning championships?

When we went to our first nationals tournament in 1997 we came dead last. And the girls on that team, some of whom are still with us today, said, ‘uh-uh, that’s just not acceptable. We might be at the wrong end of the table for unemployment and poverty but we will not accept being at the bottom for cheerleading’.

So we went back, we got better, and on April 11 1998, our senior co-ed team won the National Championships.

We’ve now held that title for 13 consecutive years.

That’s quite an achievement. What other trophies have the Ascension Eagles won?

To be honest, we’ve lost count!

What I do know is that to date the Eagles have entertained over 300 million people from across the world – not counting the hits on Youtube.

At the end of last year we were crowned Number one in Europe, and in April we went to the World Championships. To qualify for this you need to be in the top one per cent of cheerleading teams in the world; out of 36 teams that made the grade, we came sixth.

From pom-poms to premieres

The eagle really has landed for a Newham based cheerleading team that has attracted the attention of film makers from across the globe. The Ascension Eagles are up there with the world's best teams so it's no surprise that everyone wants to tell their story. The Newham Mag got there first; we caught up with director Shara Brice who gave us this exclusive.

Thanks to our efforts, Great Britain is now ranked as the world's third best cheer nation.

How did you feel when you were approached by Big Talk Pictures [producers of Hot Fuzz] to turn the Ascension Eagles story into a film?

The first enquiry from a film company came when we were about three-years-old and my husband and I did everything we could to discourage them. Although we had a championship title by then, we didn't know if we had championship character yet. This has to do with how you respond whether you're at the top or at the bottom, and we knew tough times would come and that that would define us.

Also, the first offers came from America and I didn't want it to be made by an American company, it needed to be a British film.

What swung it was the young people on our leadership team saying that if our story was encapsulated in a film it might really inspire people around the world and that would be something really special.

Big Talk also have the rights to turn the film into a West End musical or TV show so they're very optimistic about the film doing well.

Will it be shot in Newham?

We're doing everything we can to encourage that. Our cheerleaders will have the opportunity to audition for the film and we would love to see local talent represented – and it'd make it a bit more authentic as well!

Gimme a 'C'!

You can join a cheerleading class at any time and with no previous experience, with ages from three to adult. For more information email Shara at

FREE EVENING YOUR

Free Beatfest festival, 8-10 July

Stratford Circus is once again heating things up for the balmy summer nights with three evenings of music and live performances.

Beatfest kicks off on Thursday 8 July with reggae, bluegrass and traditional Eastern European music from local singer/songwriter Gidon Shilker, Still House Orchestra and Paprika Reloaded.

Friday sees the New London Orchestra and Grand Union Youth Orchestra giving classical music a twist with the electric violin, a pinch of jazz, Latin rhythms and African drumming.

And the festival is wrapped up on Saturday 10 July with dub step band Nova and Rinse FM regular, DJ Wonder.

All shows take place at Stratford Circus, Theatre Square, E15 with music starting from 7pm until late.

Visit www.stratford-circus.com or call 0844 357 2625 for more information. Performances from Still House Orchestra and Paprika Reloaded cost £5 and tickets can be bought in advance; all other performances are free and you can drop-in when the mood takes you.

East London gem Bronco Bullfrog revived at Stratford Picture House

This leading cult film born 'n' bred in Newham has been digitally restored and is coming to Stratford Picture House for a limited time only.

The movie grew out of a documentary that director Barney Platts-Mills made about a workshop for young people at the Theatre Royal Stratford East called the Playbarn project, run by legendary British theatre director Joan Littlewood. Once the documentary was finished, the young people suggested to Platts-Mills that he should make 'a proper film', offering to act in it themselves for free. Inspired by Littlewood, he encouraged them to come up with a story based on events taken from their everyday lives in Newham, and Bronco Bullfrog was born.

Mention the Mag and get a discount!

Bronco Bullfrog is showing on Sunday 4 July, 7pm; Wednesday 7 July, 1pm; and Thursday 8 July, 8.30pm at Stratford Picture House, Salway Road, E15. Simply mention the Newham Mag at the box office and see the film for £3.50 - £4 off the standard ticket price. For more information visit www.picturehouses.co.uk

Become a work of art at the Mayor's Newham Show

World-renowned image maker Adam Magyar, in association with photo agency Rhubarb-Rhubarb, is creating a massive outdoor installation to be displayed in Stratford – and needs Newham residents to be his models. Along with young Olympic hopefuls and people from the art world, the photo shoot for the installation called Walk for the Camera is happening at the Mayor's Newham Show in Central Park, E6, on Saturday 17 July, registration at information tent 4.15pm for picture taking at 5pm.

A minimum of 300 local people are needed and the finished installation will be unveiled as part of the east London photo month in October. The installation will then be on display outside Stratford Station until July 2011.

This is a great opportunity to be part of a real live art event which uses the latest technology to produce amazing images.

For more information or if you would like to register to be in the photo, visit www.newham.gov.uk/summerphoto.

OTHER LISTINGS

LIFT

The LIFT (the London International Festival of Theatre) is ready to turn heads in Canning Town with its urban theatre which uses the streets as the stage. Find out more at www.liftfestival.com

Here's a taste of what you can expect at the LIFT on Clarkson Road, opposite

Canning Town Station.

LIFT: Back to Back Theatre Residency

Sunday 27 June, 1pm, FREE

In workshops, actors from Back to Back Theatre have been working with people with disabilities from Newham to create a brand new show – an experiment – that gets right at the heart of why we look at things the way we do.

LIFT: Home Sweet Home by Subject to change

15-17 July, 12noon-6pm, FREE

Personalise a cardboard house and become part of a perfectly formed, miniature community. Over three days neighbours can visit the community and introduce themselves, exploring the community as it develops. On the final day a street party will bring together all the residents.

LIFT: Music for Seven Ice Cream Vans

Saturday 17 July, around 7.30pm, FREE

Listen out for the gentle symphony of seven ice cream vans, starting at The Lift and then weaving its way around Canning Town. Created by award-winning composer of film, television and theatre music Dan Jones, Music for Seven Ice Cream Vans will be played across the city, with each ice cream van playing a separate part of the score.

Royal Docks Learning & Activities Centre (formerly St John's Community Centre)

Creative craft
Produce beautiful items using knitting, crochet, embroidery and more; suitable for all abilities. Saturdays starting 3 July, 12.30-2.30pm, Cost: £1
